What we eat and how it is produced really matters.

Our Farm Café features ingredients grown and raised here on the fields around you. From the eggs laid by our free range chickens, to the Stonyfield yogurt produced with the organic milk from our dairy herd, seasonal vegetables harvested fresh this week and more, you're tasting food produced with dedication to farming for a more vibrant future.

Through our work of training new farmers, educating visitors, and building soil health, we all play a role in creating a healthier planet.

Eating here supports our mission to transform our relationship with farming and food for a healthier planet.
